Performing arts – theatre;
Cultural heritage – intangible heritage;
Literature books and reading – publishing;
Interdisciplinary arts.

Description

We are developing project of international Artist – in – Residence program for artists and collectives experienced in participatory art practices, interested to take part in researching the different aspects of students' life. Artist, curators and collectives from different fields of arts (the visual arts, performing arts, literature, and interdisciplinary arts) and regions will be involved. Through past participative projects we have already made digital archive of vernacular, art and documentary photographs dealing with life of the students from the fifties until contemporary days in local context but within the global social and historic flows.

The main objectives of the project are:

- audience development through participative and contextual based art practices;
- involving students and youth communities of different backgrounds into creative endeavors and recognizing the scope of Pan-European characteristics of students' life, education and identities.
- advancement and application of innovative digital technologies in creating platforms for shared interactive contents;
- developing collaborative digital humanities interpretative models of intangible heritage;

We intend to establish joint on-line platform, networked artist in residency program, traveling exhibition and printed publication.
