Project

Field(s)	Contemporary opera
Description	GODS AMONG US Redefining the mythic worlds through contemporary opera “Gods among us” is a collaborative project for the production of two contemporary operas between three European cultural organizations. It aims to promote the mobility of European artists through the means of educational workshops, professional engagement, and audience development. This project will span within 40 months and it is designed to form a collaborative ground to create new pieces of art, and a platform where professional and amateur artists can meet and work together. The outcome of this project will reach an audience from different age groups, social classes, and background, with the ultimate goal of presenting opera as a natural happening in society; outside the elitist context, it is usually performed and accessible to everyone.

We have a National Opera of Athens, Greece as one of the partners. We have the program, methodology, material, and text done. Depending on the partners and their needs it would need to be adjusted. Budget is also roughly done. Most of the things are done, they need to be finalized only.
