Aims and activities of the organisation	and Social Communication of the Jagiellonian University. We are constantly cooperating with practitioners in the field of tourism, sport and new media. We look at the processes and phenomena on the market through the prism of competitiveness, understood rather as a "joint search", and not as absolute competition. We also place significant emphasis on the cooperation of various entities of the economy, seeing it as the best way to develop a sustainable knowledge-based economy. Our scientific activity is focused on the issues of functioning and management of tourism and sports economy entities as well as the issues of entrepreneurship and enterprise management in the digital space. The adopted perspective enables exploration that goes beyond defining business models corresponding to the challenges of the modern economy, including digitization. It covers a wide spectrum of issues within the economy of sharing and co-creation, the issues of open innovation (including data-based innovations, smart products) and the processes of knowledge transfer and learning of enterprises in the social media environment. The common foundation of the conducted research tasks is the assumption that shaping and maintaining competitive advantages of enterprises and organizations is the basis for the functioning of the economy.
